(Written Exclusively for The New York Times By Edward Payson Weston.)

Roseville, Cal., July 11.—"If any one had told me six months ago that I would be walking over railroad tracks between Chicago and San Francisco for 2,577 miles, and practically without attendance or necessary refreshments for 1,500 miles of that distance, I should have said, 'I am not such an idiot.' I am not saying this to excuse this wretched failure. I am simply stating facts.

This has been an effort which should be called one chapter of mistakes from beginning to end. In the first place I should not have relied upon a miserable set of wheels and mobile to convey my attendants, and again, should have gone from San Francisco to New York. Then the tornadoes, sales of troops, and other various coming from the West, would have driven me into New York instead of depriving me of the use of the road for fifteen days out of the 100 days all told.

"This is the most crushing failure I have encountered in my career. When I arrive in San Francisco on Wednesday forenoon I shall have placed my credit a distance of 3,895 miles, walked between New York and San Francisco.
All railway men say I should add at least 200 miles more for crossing and recrossing the tracks during the 2,577 miles I have followed the railroad. Because as it may, I could never exceed over three and a half miles per hour, and it took a far greater effort to walk that distance on tracks than to walk four miles per hour on a country road, when one is in sight.

"The past week has been excessively trying to one's nerves, walking through swamps, Turkey and Greece miles per hour, and crawling over twelve inches wide, bordering on a canon 1,000 feet below for at least twenty-five miles. A single false step or a rolling stone would have plunged me into the great unknown. This is bad enough in the daytime, though the scenery is grand, but when you retire to sleep, I find it a nightmare all this I am in the best of health, but much depressed in spirits.

"I leave here for Sacramento at 5:30 Monday, as the citizens have asked me to come to their city in the daylight. I shall probably go fifteen or twenty-five miles beyond that city so as to make a shorter distance for Tuesday and a still shorter distance before entering San Francisco on Wednesday. Arriving at Oakland, I shall retrace the track five miles, and then walk three miles back to the ferry, thus covering the distance. I could not walk over the bay."—N. Y. Times.

Bulgaria Prepared to Annex Macedonia

(Special from United Press.)
Sofia, July 12.—To quietly annex Macedonia, where Turkey and Greece are involved in the controversy over Crete now appears to be the object of Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria. Although the facts have not been made known, every effort is being made to preserve secrecy as a means of preventing the interference of the powers, the Bulgarian government is known to have represented strongly to Turkey that Czar Ferdinand cannot stand longer endure the ill-treatment which he says is being accorded Bulgarians.
The hostility which the Czar has subsidized slightly after the granting of the Turkish constitution has renewed in full force.

OVER 600 MINERS

ARE STILL ENTOMBED

(Special from United Press.)

Cordova, Spain, July 12.—Rescuers have taken thirty dead, twelve dying and forty-five injured from the collapsed galleries of the Belmez coal mine near here. It is believed that 600 miners are still entombed in the galleries which were cut off from the surface by the collapse of the main shaft.
The disaster was caused by an explosion of fire damp.

The explosion occurred at a time when the full force of miners was at work in the galleries and practically all of them were penned behind huge walls of coal which slid down from the galleries. Many of the men were caught and crushed under the coal slide. The dead and injured that have been recovered were all buried under a huge pile of coal at the mouth of one of the galleries. Rescuers are working with the utmost difficulty in their effort to dig out the entombed miners owing to the shifting of the great mass of coal under which the men are buried. Several rescue parties have narrowly escaped being caught under the debris.

FARMERS KILL DEER ON THEIR OWN LAND

Take Advantage of Law Permitting It—Williamantic Man and Friends Feasting on Venison.

Williamantic, July 12.—Reports received from neighboring towns show that the farmers are taking advantage of the law that permits them to shoot on their own land, deer that they catch in the act of destroying crops or doing other damage. Howard Tucker of Pleasant View farm, Scotland, had been missing beans and other vegetables from his garden but he supposed the thieves were pigeons and loaded his gun to be in readiness for them. He was therefore much surprised upon going out of the house the other morning to see in the garden a 300-pound deer. He fired the gun to scare the animal away and accidentally wounded it, then he killed the deer to put it out of misery. He notified the game warden of what had occurred and was allowed to keep the venison for his own use, with such gifts as he desired to make to his neighbors and friends and when he skinned the deer he found four shot in the neck that had been fired by some other farmer or hunter and these were also a hole made by a rifle shot in one of the ears.

D. A. Lyman is another farmer who has put an end to the annoyance caused by a deer making frequent visits to his garden and helping itself to the choicest products of the farm in the early vegetable line. Mr. Lyman's farm is near Columbia, green and it was his beet bed that was suffering from the depredations of the deer. Being editor of the "Williamantic Journal," Mr. Lyman is in this city attending to business several days each week and while he is here his brother, E. P. Lyman, looks after the farm. The editor had been unable to catch the deer in the act himself, but he felt pretty certain that the animal would continue his visits to the beet bed, so he arranged with his brother to do the shooting in case the deer should reappear, obtaining permission from the game warden for his brother to use the gun. It was only a short time after this permission was obtained that E.
P. Lyman saw the deer in the garden and getting his gun he quickly dispatched the pretty but troublesome animal. This deer was a young one and this being the case the Lyman families and some of their neighbors were privileged to feast on some especially tender and appetizing venison.

MILITARY ACTIVITY AGAINST THE MOORS

(Special from United Press.)

Madrid, July 12.—Although the Moorish tribesmen who attacked the Spanish troops near Melilla have quieted down, the government is preventing the occupancy of adjacent territory by a large body of troops. Eighteen battalions of infantry with cavalry and artillery are embarking today and another brigade is being mobilized to be dispatched as early as possible.

The government officials are making it very plain that the military activity is directed solely against the Moors, but it is feared on highest authority that the immediate response of the War Department to Governor Mari-naux's recent request will carry great weight.

"Baby Days."

The Germans have always made a great deal of children's birthday and no doubt lead the world in things made for the little people. The great kindergarten teacher Froebel, was a German and they make much of celebrations of this character. In America the tendency is growing in the observance of days of this character and we are making post cards, booklets, invitation cards and many things that go to assist in celebrating events of this kind. At Jackson's Book Shop, 986-988 Main street you will find invited assortment birthday cards, congratulatory cards, invitation forms printed or plain for children celebrations. One of the very pleasing and attractive novelties is what is known as the stork card which is used for announcing the arrival at the home of the little one. If you are looking for novelties of this kind don't fail to stop
